

Dr Susanne Kurz

is a multi-passionate German scholar, hypnosis coach, creator and visionary.

She has authored several non-fiction books, book chapters and articles, both academic and non-academic, in German, English and Persian.

As a speaker, she takes her audience on her "Spiritual Journey of a Sceptic" to encourage and inspire anyone who is unhappy with the materialistic paradigm, but does not have any special spiritual gifts.

After spending almost twenty years investigating the fascinating variety of human cultural expression as a university researcher and teacher on the history of the Persianate culture in Iran, Central Asia and India, she felt pushed to embark on a new adventure.

In her "second life" as a life coach and hypnotist, she supports people who feel stuck or trapped in their current situation and want to connect with their inner wisdom and strength to find their own individual solutions.

Since the onset of her midlife crisis in her mid-30s, she has turned more intensively to the big questions of life and has had several spiritual experiences.

Now, she has also started channelling short stories and practising to broaden and deepen her perception of what she calls the "background reality".

All her activities are connected by her passion for people and their stories, for breaking down limitations and by her urge for creative expression.

Based on several years of practical experience, she has recently started to offer consulting, coaching and services around online profiles (IMDb, Google Business, Amazon, Wikipedia etc.) for coaches, podcasters, YouTubers, actors and conscious entrepreneurs.

Aside from her academic and non-fiction writing, creative writing has been one of her many passions since the age of 12. Her most exciting current project is the high fantasy television series in development Magician's Blood that combines her unique knowledge and experience to present a vision for a brighter world within a compelling adventure story with the Vikings star Ivan Kaye as the lead actor.